

Alerts

Warning: Website misusing the name and details of Keystone Law Limited

2 May 2025

A website at 'www.truestonelawsandassetsmanagement.com' is operating using the details of a genuine firm's website.

What is the scam?

The website at 'www.truestonelawsandassetsmanagement.com' is operating and claiming to be a law firm called 'Truestone Law'.

The website for 'Truestone Law' misuses the content from a genuine firm of solicitor's website (see below).

The SRA has also been informed that a website at '<https://truestonelawinvestmentfundsandassetmanagement.com/>' was previously operating.

The SRA does not authorise or regulate firms of solicitors called 'Truestone Law'.

Any business or transactions through the websites 'www.truestonelawsandassetsmanagement.com' and '<https://truestonelawinvestmentfundsandassetmanagement.com/>' is not undertaken by a firm or individual authorised and regulated by the SRA.

Is there a genuine firm or solicitor?

The SRA authorises and regulates a genuine firm of solicitors called Keystone Law Limited. Its website is www.keystonelaw.co.uk.

The genuine firm has confirmed it does not have any connection to the websites referred to above.

Is there a genuine firm or person?

When a firm's or individual's identity has been copied exactly (or cloned), due diligence is necessary. If you receive correspondence claiming to be from the above firm(s) or individual(s), or information of a similar nature to that described, you should conduct your own due diligence by checking the authenticity of the correspondence by contacting the law firm directly by reliable and established means. You can contact the SRA to find out if individuals or firms are regulated and authorised by the SRA and verify an individual's or firm's practising details. Other verification methods, such as checking public records (e.g. telephone directories and company records) may be required in other circumstances.

What should I do?

When a firm's or individual's identity has been copied exactly (or cloned), due diligence is necessary. If you receive correspondence claiming to be from the above firm(s) or individual(s), or information of a similar nature to that described, you should conduct your own due diligence by checking the authenticity of the correspondence by contacting the law firm directly by reliable and established means. You can contact the SRA to find out if individuals or firms are regulated and authorised by the SRA and verify an individual's or firm's practising details. Other verification methods, such as checking public records (e.g. telephone directories and company records) may be required in other circumstances.